

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5      The mobile communication terminal device has a security communication function, and includes a detection unit for detecting the security level of the destination of connection, and an announcing unit for announcing the detected security level. The user is able to confirm whether security is ensured at the connectee.